

Anglia expands power portfolio with Murata Power Solutions

Anglia has announced that it has signed a UK and Ireland distribution agreement with Murata Power Solutions for its broad range of power converter products.

A world-leading manufacturer of DC-DC converters, AC-DC power supplies, magnetics, data acquisition devices and panel meters, Murata Power Solutions offers the widest range of power products from a single manufacturer. Their applications typically span the telecommunication, computing and industrial sectors.

Anglia's Divisional Marketing Manager, John Bowman said, "Murata Power Solutions' products are a tremendous addition to our power management product line-up and a perfect complement to our existing activities in this area. This means even greater choice for our customers, backed by expert technical support from our dedicated power team."

Trevor Jennings, Northern European Sales Manager, Murata Power Solutions said, "Anglia has focused key individuals who have power technology experience to support our products and I am delighted that they are partnered with us. Their design-led approach coupled with their extensive reach in the UK and Ireland will ensure customers receive the best possible design-in & supply route.”
